Clashes at Hong Kong airport as flights halted for second day

Tuesday's protests followed an unprecedented airport shutdown Monday.

GETTY IMAGES

Police and protesters clashed at Hong Kong's international airport on Tuesday after flights were disrupted for a second day as the political crisis in the former British colony deepened.

In Washington, U.S. President Donald Trump said the Chinese government was moving troops to the border with Hong Kong and he urged calm.

Trump said the situation in Hong Kong was tricky but he hoped it would work out for everybody, including China, and "for liberty," without anyone getting hurt or killed.

Hong Kong Chief Executive Carrie Lam warned that Hong Kong risked being "smashed to pieces."

Demonstrators who have been protesting for the past nine weeks against Beijing's growing influence in the special administrative region targeted the airport for a second day on Tuesday.

Thousands of black-clad protesters jammed the terminal chanting and waving banners.

"I think paralyzing the airport will be effective in forcing Carrie Lam to respond to us...it can further pressure Hong Kong's economy," said Dorothy Cheng, a 17-year-old protester.

Scuffles broke out in the evening after an injured man was held by a group of protesters. Some claimed he was an undercover mainland Chinese agent and initially refused to let him leave.

Medics, however, bundled him onto a stretcher and forced their way through jeering throngs to an ambulance.

Several police vehicles were blocked by protesters and riot police moved in amid chaotic scenes, using pepper spray to keep people back. A policeman pulled out a gun at one point.

Protesters also barricaded some passageways in the airport with luggage trolleys, metal barriers and other objects.

> Hong Kong Chief Exec. Carrie Lam

Others clambered onto check-in counters as the protesters appeared to control part of the airport for a short while. At least two protesters were taken away by police.

Another mainland Chinese man was held and tied down by protesters at the airport after they thought he was posing as a reporter. The editor-in-chief of the state-run Global Times newspaper, Hu Xijin, tweeted that the man was a journalist with the paper. He was later taken away by ambulance.

The situation calmed down after a few hours without the violence worsening, and the crowds thinned out. Local media reported that an injunction had been issued by a local court to clear the airport of protesters.

The action followed an unprecedented shutdown of the airport on Monday. Hong Kong's Airport Authority said operations had been "seriously disrupted" on Tuesday and departing passengers had been unable to reach immigration counters.

The weeks of protests began as opposition to a now-suspended bill that would have allowed suspects to be extradited to mainland China and have swelled into wider calls for democracy.

Demonstrators say they are fighting the erosion of the "one country, two systems" arrangement that enshrined some autonomy for Hong Kong since China took it back from Britain in 1997.

The increasingly violent clashes between police and protesters have roiled the Asian financial hub. Hong Kong's stock-market fell to a seven-month low on Tuesday.

PUSHED INTO THE ABYSS

The United Nations human rights commissioner, Michele Bachelet, urged Hong Kong authorities to exercise restraint and investigate evidence of their forces firing tear gas at protesters in ways banned under international law.

China responded by saying her comments sent the wrong signal to "violent criminal offenders."

Chief Executive Lam made an appeal for calm and restraint.

"Take a minute to look at our city, our home," she said, her voice cracking, at a news conference in the newly-fortified government headquarters complex.

"Can we bear to push it into the abyss and see it smashed to pieces?" she said.

Demonstrators want Lam to resign. She has said she will stay. REUTERS

2 Buttigieg unveils $80B plan for internet in rural America

Democratic presidential candidate Pete Buttigieg unveiled an ambitious plan on Tuesday to transform the economy of rural America, including spending $80 billion to provide high-speed internet and $50 billion over a decade to help farmers combat climate change. Buttigieg, 37, the mayor of South Bend, Indiana, also proposes dramatically increasing teacher pay in rural areas and spending $5 billion over a decade to ensure an apprenticeship program in a growing industry is available within 30 miles of every American. Buttigieg was dueto unveil his plan as he begins a two-day, seven-county swing through southeast Iowa. "This plan unleashes the potential of small towns across America with good jobs, an opportunity to grow a business and the infrastructure to raise a healthy and happy family," he said. REUTERS

3 CBS, Viacom combine to rival Disney, Netflix and Comcast

CBS Corp. and Viacom Inc. have reached a deal to reunite media mogul Sumner Redstone's U.S. entertainment empire, betting that a larger company will be able to compete and partner better in a media industry dominated by giants. The new company will be named Viacom-CBS Inc. The merger will combine the CBS television network, CBS News, Showtime cable networks with MTV Networks, Nickelodeon, Comedy Central and the Paramount movie studios. Together, they will own more than 140,000 TV episodes and 3,600 film titles. "My father once said 'content is king,' and never has that been more true than today," Shari Redstone said in a statement. The company's roughly $30 billion market value is still small compared with rivals Netflix Inc. ($136 billion), ABC owner Disney ($245 billion) and NBC owner Comcast ($193 billion). REUTERS

4 22 States sue EPA to block carbon rule replacement

Twenty-two states, including New York and California, and seven cities on Tuesday sued to challenge the Environmental Protection Agency's replacement of the Obama administration's Clean Power Plan, arguing it prolongs U.S. reliance on coal power and obstructs states that pursue cleaner electricity generation. The petition, filed in a federal appellate court in Washington, calls for the rule to be vacated. The petitioners argue that the EPA's Affordable Clean Energy (ACE) rule, which it finalized in June, will not curb rising carbon emissions from power plants and will prolong the operation of dirtier coal plants. "Without significant course correction, we are careening towards a climate disaster," New York Attorney General Letitia James said in a statement announcing the suit, which also marks California's 55th lawsuit against the Trump administration. Broadway producer arrested on child pornography charges

Ben Sprecher allegedly had 100 downloads of child pornography on his computer.

BECCA GLASSER-BAKER
Rebecca.Glasser@metro.us

Broadway producer Ben Sprecher, who was embroiled in a 2012 theater scandal, is now facing federal child pornography charges.

NBC reported Sprecher, 65, was arrested early Tuesday on a criminal complaint from the U.S. Attorney's Office in New York City. His arrest came after investigators obtained a search warrant for his home on West 122nd Street in Morningside Heights, where they allegedly found child pornography.

According to reports, Sprecher allegedly admitted that he had downloaded child porn files; more than 100 electronic files were seized from his home. His stash of videos reportedly included a 46-minute-long video of a pre-teen girl, aged between 10-12, engaging in "sexual acts" with an adult male.

Sprecher allegedly shared four of the files with an undercover agent in June, over the course of three days, according to the New York Post. It is believed that he had been accumulating these files since October 2018.

Neighbors of Sprecher recalled how important the internet was to him. In 2014, Sprecher reportedly reached out to neighbors and had them sign petitions to help them get faster internet.

Sprecher made headlines in 2012 as being involved in the "Rebecca" Broadway scandal, in which a $12 million musical was scheduled to run until it was discovered that its backer, Paul Abrams, never existed.

An ex-stockbroker named Mark Hotton was charged in the scam. He served two years and 10 months in 2014, according to the NY Post.

"Rebecca" co-producer Louise Forlenza and Sprecher later sued Marc Thibodeau, the show's publicist, claiming he used the scandal to scare away potential investors. The Manhattan Supreme Court awarded them $90,000 in the defamation claim.

Sprecher's most recent project was a 2017 London stage adaptation of "The Exorcist." He is well-known as the executive producer of "Little House on the Prairie" tour and also produced Broadway's "Brighton Beach Memoirs."

Knives confiscated at NYC schools way up: Report

A total of 1,677 knives were confiscated from students in the past school year.

MORGAN ROUSSEAU
morgan@metro.us

WIKIMEDIA COMMONS

Bullying and lax punishment may be to blame for a startling uptick in the number of knives confiscated from New York City school students this past academic year.

According to a New York Post analysis of new NYPD data, the number of weapons seized at city schools last year reached a five-year high, with the most glaring increase being knives. A total of 1,677 knives were confiscated from NYC students in the 2018-19 school year, which is 92 percent higher than in 2015, when 873 knives were seized.

In total, 2,701 weapons were seized last year, according to the report. And of those weapons, 43 percent were caught by metal detectors, cops told the Post. Six guns were confiscated, down from a decade ago. Forty-four BB guns and 55 stun guns were taken this past school year.

Greg Floyd, president of Teamsters Local 237, the union that represents school safety agents, commented on the alarming statistics, telling the Post that students are likely bringing weapons to school because they know other students are also armed.

"Nothing has changed. The numbers keep rising year by year. This just means that more children are bringing knives to school because they know other kids are bringing knives to school," Floyd said.

Bullying may also be a factor, he said.

"We remain hopeful that [Schools Chancellor Richard Carranza] will recognize that bullying is an integral part of school safety. Because if this isn't truly addressed, kids are going to take matters into their own hands."

A Department of Education spokesman told the Post that the spike in knife possession may be due to more metal-detector scanning in schools. Unannounced pop-up metal detectors started showing up in schools two years ago. About 90 city schools have permanent metal detectors, as well.

"Our schools are safe and getting safer — overall weapons recovery, major crime and suspensions are down, and we're proud of the progress we're making," DOE spokesman Will Mantell told the Post.

It's not clear what consequences students face if they're caught with a weapon in their possession. Metro reached out for comment from the DOE, but did not immediately hear back.

"Nothing has changed. The numbers keep rising year by year. This just means that more children are bringing knives to school because they know other kids are bringing knives to school."

James Petrucci, warden at the FCI in Otisville, N.Y., was named acting warden at the MCC. GETTY IMAGES

Warden at jail where Epstein died is removed

Staff shakeup announced hours after Trump demands "full investigation."

U.S. Attorney General William Barr ordered the removal of the warden at the federal jail where financier Jeffrey Epstein was found dead in an apparent suicide while awaiting trial on sex-trafficking charges, the Justice Department said on Tuesday, after condemning "serious irregularities" at the facility.

The staff shakeup at the Metropolitan Correctional Center (MCC) in Lower Manhattan announced by the department included temporarily reassigning the warden to another post within the federal Bureau of Prisons, appointing a temporary replacement and placing two corrections officers assigned to Epstein's unit on administrative leave pending the outcome of investigations.

Epstein was found dead on Saturday morning, having apparently hanged himself in his cell.

The department's announcement of the staff changes was made hours after President Donald Trump said he wanted a full investigation into the circumstances surrounding Epstein's death.

"Additional actions may be taken as the circumstances warrant," Kerri Kupec, a Justice Department spokeswoman, said in a statement.

Epstein, who once counted Trump and former President Bill Clinton as friends, was arrested on July 6 and pleaded not guilty to charges of sex trafficking involving dozens of underage girls as young as 14.

Kupec said James Petrucci, the warden at Federal Correctional Institution Otisville in New York, was named as acting MCC warden. The previous warden was reassigned to the bureau's Northeast Regional Office, Kupec added. The corrections officers were not identified.

The department did not name the warden who was reassigned, but sources familiar with the matter identified him as Lamine N'Diaye, who formerly was in charge of the Bureau of Prisons office of internal affairs.

Barr, the top U.S. law enforcement official, on Monday vowed to carry on the Epstein investigation following the death of the wealthy and well-connected money manager. Barr said he was "appalled" at the jail's "failure to adequately secure this prisoner." Barr cited "serious irregularities at this facility," but did not offer specifics.

The 66-year-old financier had been on suicide watch, but a source familiar with the matter who spoke on condition of anonymity said he was not on watch at the time of his death.

At the MCC, two jail guards are required to make separate checks on all prisoners every 30 minutes, but that procedure was not followed overnight, according to the source.

Trump earlier on Tuesday praised Barr's handling of the matter, adding, "I want a full investigation, and that's what I absolutely am demanding. That's what our attorney general, our great attorney general is doing."

Speaking to reporters in Morristown, New Jersey, Trump also defended his decision on Saturday to retweet an unfounded conspiracy theory from a conservative comedian named Terrence K. Williams that Clinton was involved in Epstein's death.

"He's a very highly respected conservative pundit," said of Williams. "He's a big Trump fan. And that was a retweet. That wasn't from me. ... So I think I was fine."

New York City's medical examiner has said an autopsy on Epstein was completed on Sunday, but the cause of death remained pending. REUTERS

Doctors Urge Knee Pain Sufferers

"Don't Get ANY Surgery Until You SeeThis…"

After Years Of Intense Study, NYC Medical Clinic Finally Reveals It's Best "Treatment Formula" For Helping Knee Arthritis Sufferers... Especially When So Many Other Treatments Have Failed

NEW YORK CITY - If you are even remotely interested in discovering how the latest scientific discoveries can possibly help your knee pain... then this is going is be the most exciting information you ever read.

Here is why: Knee pain can not only be brutal... it's complex. In other words, it's not a simple, easy fix.

But I'm sure you already know that. Or you wouldn't be reading this.

That's the bad news.

Now for some good news...

Over the years, NYC Pain MD has treated countless knee pain sufferers. And in that time have been able to constantly improve.

And we have come up with a treatment formula that we have found works best and helps the most patients.

This formula has reduced or even eliminated the pain in many. Some were scheduled for knee replacement surgery and felt good enough to cancel their surgery.

It's amazing when patients who were once in excruciating pain... start feeling better. And start walking again. And playing golf. Or tennis. And finally getting their lives back.

Especially when they had gone to other doctors and tried so many other things.

So many had given up hope.

Sound familiar? If it does... check this out...

The Treatment Formula

While I can't give you the entire treatment formula here (there is not enough space and WAY too complicated) I can give you the basics. And more important... I can tell you what it might be able to do for YOU.

The first and most important part of the formula is: PATIENT SELECTION.

This means, NYC Pain MD has a detailed screening process to tell who is most likely to be helped by their treatments... and who is not.

If you qualify, you have the opportunity to move forward and experience the worldclass treatments that NYC Pain MD offers.

If you do not, NYC Pain MD will tell you what they think your best options are and help you find the right doctor for you.

NYC Pain MD "Treatment Formula" A protocol of advanced medical treatments that has already helped thousands.

If you qualify, NYC Pain MD offers some of the most advanced medical treatments available today all using the most advanced imaging technology including:

- Viscosupplementation (gel injections)
- Platelet Rich Plasma (PRP)
- Stem Cell Therapy (Lipogems)
- Genicular Knee Block
- And more.

Once again, there is not enough space to go into detail about all these procedures... but here are some things you MUST KNOW....

Viscosupplementation is where a doctor introduces a gel-like medicine directly into the joint space. This helps to lubricate the joints often relieving some, most or even all of your pain. Results can last for 6 months to several years.

Many have had these treatments without good results. However, NYC Pain MD feels this is because doctors often do these "gel injections" without advanced imaging to guide them. Research shows they will often miss the joint. If the joint is missed... it is impossible for the treatment to work.

NYC Pain MD has spared no expense and used advanced imaging to guide the injections assuring the medicine gets into the joint. We frequently get results when this treatment was a failure done elsewhere.

The second thing you must know is... our treatment plans are custom made for every patent. And we have all these treatments offered in the same place. Many times you will get the best results from multiple treatments. At NYC Pain MD your doctors will all be there and will all know each other and you and your case. They work together and give you the best treatments and care without you having to go anywhere else.

The ability to select the right patients and then have the potential to give them any or all of these treatments... with all the necessary medical technology... under one roof... has allowed NYC Pain MD to get better results than they thought possible.

Here's What You Should Do Next

If you suffer with knee pain... and any of this made sense to you... NYC Pain MD would like to offer you a No-cost screening. That screening is the first step in our "Treatment Formula."

You will get to see a doctor and ask any questions you have. Your doctor will take the first steps to see if you qualify for treatments and give you recommendations.

The best thing is... you will finally get direction. You will know what's going on and what is your best course of action… step-by-step. The treatments will be explained in detail and you will breathe a big sigh of relief finally knowing what's going on and what can or cannot be done.

There is so much we want to say to help you... but I'm out of space. Give us a call at 877-296-6310 and take the first step. That step is free without obligation.

Snap, with $40M Spectacles loss in rearview, to launch new version

Third-generation glasses will feature dual cameras, cost twice as much.

Snap Inc. said Tuesday it will launch a new version of its Spectacles sunglasses that will have the capability of capturing photos and videos and uploading them directly to its unit Snapchat.

Snap has struggled to make money from its Spectacles business, and wrote down $40 million in unsold glasses in 2017.

Production will be smaller for its new Spectacles 3 version, allowing Snap to continue experimenting with augmented reality, a key focus for the technology company.

Spectacles 3, which will begin shipping in the fall, will cost $380, almost twice the $200 cost of the previous version.

It will have dual cameras to add depth and dimension to photos and videos. After uploading the content to the messaging app Snapchat, users can add new lighting, landscapes and three-dimensional effects to the images, Snap said.

Snap gained fame among users in part through its augmented reality (AR) features, including lenses that can overlay effects like dog ears on photos, or even change a user's gender in Snap images.

The company added 13 million users in the second quarter, of which 7 million to 9 million were from the new AR lenses, Snap said.

Last week, Snap said it would raise $1.1 billion in debt to fund further investments in AR, content and possible acquisitions.

Snap should focus on earning more money from its content, and could potentially make investments in music, "a natural thing for people to share" on social media, said Jim McVeigh, founder of Cyndx, an investment search platform that connects companies with firms seeking to be acquired or to raise capital.

BRIEF

Trump delays tariffs on Chinese cellphones, laptops, toys; markets jump

U.S. President Donald Trump on Tuesday backed off his Sept. 1 deadline for 10 percent tariffs on remaining Chinese imports, delaying duties on cellphones, laptops and other consumer goods, in the hopes of blunting their impact on U.S. holiday sales.

The delay which, affects about half of the $300 billion target list of Chinese goods —along with news of renewed trade discussions between U.S. and Chinese officials — sent stocks sharply higher and drew cautious relief from retailers and technology groups.

Trump's 10 percent tariffs will be effective from Dec. 15 for thousands of products including clothing and footwear, possibly buttressing the holiday selling season from some of the fallout from the protracted trade spat between the world's two largest economies.

"We're doing this for Christmas season, just in case some of the tariffs would have an impact on U.S. customers," Trump told reporters in New Jersey. "Just in case they might have an impact on people, what we've done is we've delayed it so that they won't be relevant to the Christmas shopping season."

The U.S. Trade Representative's Office announced the decision just minutes after China's Ministry of Commerce said Vice Premier Liu He conducted a phone call with U.S. trade officials.

The delay in tariffs on a substantial portion of a $300 billion list of remaining Chinese imports sent U.S. stocks surging, after steep losses in the past week.

Shares of market bellwether Apple Inc. soared 4.2 percent on news that its core iPhone, tablet and laptop computer products would be spared from tariffs for the time being.

Blue Man Group's new tour may just leave you 'Speechless'

Here's what to expect from the iconic blue trio's new show, which opens in September.

BECCA GLASSER-BAKER
Rebecca.Glasser@metro.us

The iconic performance company Blue Man Group is gearing up for a new tour, "Speechless," which kicks off this fall.

The new show focuses on the Blue Man Group's "workshop" and combines new songs, new technology and new instruments with large-scale audience participation, according to its director, Jenny Koons. The production gave Metro an exclusive sneak peek of "Speechless" and the creation process behind the new show.

For Koons, one of the things that stood out most to her was that "there was an openness from the beginning of, this is where we're starting but finding the show together."

When asked where the show's name came from, Koons said, "For me, the first thing it makes me think of is those moments in our lives, small moments and large moments that go beyond words." She hopes that the show will help theatergoers share and create special, one-of-a-kind moments together.

Metro also spoke with Creative Director Jon Knight, who describes working with Blue Man Group as a collective effort.

"One of the most important parts of keeping that collective vibrant is the introduction of new voices to the group. For this show, we felt that bringing in a new director [Koons] would add a creative eye that could see potential moves for the character and the show that we might not see ourselves.

"Working with Jenny has been absolutely inspiring," he added. "It's an exciting change of energy, and she is brimming with new ideas."

"Speechless" took its creators more than a year of "writing and rewriting and rewriting again," according to Knight.

Additionally, he said that "'Speechless' is a new show for us. We've created a different environment for the Blue Men — a peek into their working space, a workshop where they create and build and collaborate."

Koons is thrilled to introduce some new instruments for the show as well an entirely new set, which helps transport viewers to the world of the Blue Man Group. Some new instruments that will be featured include the "tonemill," which is a spinning instrument with spokes, and two different versions of something called "trigger trees." Each Blue Man will have his own "trigger tree."

Although the show is entirely new, there will still be some legacy elements such as classic Blue Man instruments, and large audience interaction and engagement, so everyone attending will feel included. Knight said, "We've been working with a lot of live sampling and audience interactions, so the show itself changes night to night. Audience interaction is a big part of the Blue Man experience and is a part of every show we make. We've really tried to take that to a new level here."

"'Speechless' is a new show for us. We've created a different environment for the Blue Men — a peek into their working space, a workshop where they create and build and collaborate."

Jenny Koons, director

On a final note, Koons wanted this show to remind everyone that "anything ordinary can be made into something extraordinary, but also artful, or joyful or messy. And in the mess, you can find something beautiful."

"Speechless" will begin touring on Sept. 24 at Hollywood Pantages Theatre in Los Angeles. The tour will continue across more than 50 cities throughout the United States.

Saves the Day frontman Chris Conley talks autobiographical meaning behind their latest album, “9,” and upcoming NYC show.

MOLLY GIVEN
Molly.Given@metro.us

This past year has been historic for celebrated rock band Saves the Day. The group’s latest album, “9,” was released at the end of 2018, and after a five-year album hiatus, the latest record is truly groundbreaking. Frontman Chris Conley wanted “9” to take fans on a musical tour of the band’s journey over the past two decades, through the unbelievable highs and heartbreaking lows. But mostly Conley wanted to celebrate the band’s legacy, music and the fans that make it all possible. Conley sat down with Metro to talk about how he was inspired to write the autobiographical album, why he needed to reflect, and dive into why his music is always so honest.

Your latest album, “9,” tells the story of the band from your perspective.

What was the inspiration behind writing it?
It sort of just came to me when I was writing the songs. Sometimes songs will pop into my head with the melodies and words, and the first song I knew was going to be on this album was the first song on the record, “Saves the Day.” When I was writing it and just sitting there with my guitar, these words just popped into my head: “Turn it up, we’re Saves the Day.” I thought it felt like a lot of fun. I had no idea where it was going at the time, but one of my favorite songs ever is the song “Wilco” by the band Wilco on their album “Wilco.” I just love that song because it’s like the Wilco theme song and also a great, weird song. Basically, the message is, when you’re having a bad day, just put your headphones on and we’ll be here. So I thought, alright, I’ll go with this. I’m going to write the Saves the Day theme song. The next song that came out fully formed is the second song on the record, “Suzuki.” Once those two songs came out, I realized, okay, so this is the theme. That’s just my style of writing: I follow the inspiration and see where it leads. Once the third song came up, there was this cool guitar riff and the lyric that was attached to it when it came into my brain was “side by side.” So I thought, “Okay, how am I going to work this into my theme of writing about being in the band?” So I wrote the song about Bryan Newman, who is one of the other original band members in Saves the Day. He’s the guy that called me up one day after the summer of 1993. He said, “Hey, I heard you learned how to play guitar over the summer. Would you want to come jam?” All these years later I still have Bryan to thank for this incredible life and incredible journey — otherwise I just would have been playing Led Zeppelin songs in my bedroom.

Why do you think these songs came to you at this point in your career?
I think it’s probably just where I am in life. I was 36 when I started to write some of this stuff and so its that time in life where you start to reflect a little bit. Twenty years have gone by in the blink of an eye and all of a sudden you’re on the other side of time. It certainly is a lot of fun to reflect on what a crazy adventure it’s been.

Was all of that reflection a cathartic experience?
It was, actually. I ended up writing about things that I hadn’t thought about in years — some of the people that have come and gone in the band, which was emotional. Sometimes you don’t want to think about those things, but they surfaced as I was writing the lyrics. It was a cathartic experience and it felt very healing as well.

I’m sure there are references throughout this album that die-hard Saves the Day fans will pick up on as well.
Oh, yes. There are tons, absolutely. I did that intentionally on this album because it’s a love letter to our fans and music itself and just the band. I feel so grateful for all of these incredible years and the only reason we get to do it is because we have such great fans. I even named three of our fans in “Suzuki.” I also was referencing our own lyrics and songs intentionally so there would be a lot of fun stuff to discover as you dive deeper into the lyrics.

What songs are your personal favorites on “9”?
I think the last song, “29,” is really cool. It’s 21 1/2 minutes long — it almost felt like writing a movie. But my favorite song is “Suzuki,” just because it came out totally formed. It’s one of those songs that just writes itself. Those are really fun to work on. It sounds almost weird, but that’s something I’m lucky to have happen. Those are typically my favorite songs, the ones that feel like they came from somewhere else or came out of nowhere.

Where did the title “9” come from?
It’s our ninth album, and when I thought about what the title of the album was going to be, that just stuck out to me. I wanted the album to have nine songs, as well. It’s also a bit of a tip of the hat to the Beatles’ “Revolution 9,” and also there is some numerology in that. I’m a pretty weird, far-out thinker, so it was just fun to play around with that idea.

Would you say for new fans this album would be a good way to get to know the band?
Yeah, that’s true, I hadn’t thought about that. I have a few friends that have kids now, and I walked by one of the kids’ bedrooms the other day and they were listening to Saves the Day and I never told them about the band, they just heard it because it was on a Spotify playlist or something. I got a real kick out of that. I feel lucky that 20 years into it we are able to still make music that’s interesting to even new fans.

Overall, what would you tell fans, old and new, to expect from a concert of yours when they attend?
We try to play a song from every album, every single night. We’re really proud of the legacy and we like the music. Thank God we were always honest, so it never feels like a stretch even to sing songs that I wrote more than half of my life ago. We are fans of the music ourselves so we also like to play the stuff that people like to hear. Sometimes the songs evolve as you grow older and I find that I’m connected to the music even more now. So you can expect to hear a lot of everything.

Be sure to catch Saves the Day at 8 p.m. on Aug. 16 at Webster Hall.

Musician Jason Lytle partners with Arthur King for a new immersive art installation

The new exhibit at 98 Orchard Street opens Thursday.

PAT KING
patrick.king@metro.us

Los Angeles-based music and arts collective Arthur King Presents believes in pushing musicians outside of their comfort zones to collaborate with artists in different mediums and immerse themselves in different unique spaces. In the past, they have worked with musicians like Beck, Lou Reed, John Cale, Elliott Smith, Earlimart and EELS to create multimedia installations that not only create a one-of-a-kind experience for those who view them but help the artists involved to find new ways to jumpstart their creativity.

For a new installation opening this Thursday at 98 Orchard Street art gallery, the collective contacted Grandaddy frontman Jason Lytle to get in on the fun. As a result, Lytle produced the sparse instrumental album "NYLONANDJUNO," to be released this Friday on Dangerbird Records, created only with a nylon-stringed guitar and an old synthesizer keyboard. The resulting album sounds just like something you would expect from Lytle's musical esthetic. I asked Lytle if Arthur King gave him any restrictions on what he could do in the studio for this recording.

"Yeah, that's probably why I had as much fun making it as I did," says Lytle, with a laugh. "The only restriction that existed — it was actually kind of a big restriction — was only allowing myself to create music with guitar and synth. That alone was just so far off from my access to my libraries and multiple instruments. ... Just the limitation of only having that one synth and an acoustic guitar on top of it, that was it."

Lytle has been known for his own signature brand of homespun grandiosity on both his classic records with Grandaddy as well as solo, with studio trickery sculpted against his high and lonesome voice. But as Lytle explains, having these boundaries allowed him to let loose a little more than he has been used to.

"I remember even with the Grandaddy stuff back in the day, I always thought that the cool thing about instrumentals is that you can just really give them some messed-up titles that don't have to have any relationship to what's going on [laughs]. You can have a little more fun."

The event will also have interactive performances like "Sound Field Vol. 1" by No Age guitarist Randy Randall as well as a performance of "Changing Landscapes: Wauters Farm" by Arthur King, centered around manipulated field recordings and images they were able to collect on a trip to a family farm in Belle Plaine, Iowa, last summer.

For Lytle's inclusion in this installation, his album has been spliced up and used against a 25-minute short film created by the Los Angeles film team Mind Palace, who created visuals inspired by the music.

"I had shivers for most of it," says Lytle of handing off his music to Mind Palace. "Seeing what they did eventually come up with was pretty awesome and pretty inspiring."

While I had him on the phone, I thought it would only be appropriate to ask Lytle if there would be a chance in seeing another Grandaddy album after 2017's "Last Place."

"Yeah, there is," Lytle says. "I have another big Grandaddy record in me. I just want to make it and not think much more about it after that. I kind of really want it to be all-encompassing. I'm going to try to go big, which might take me a while to make it. The idea of that being the only thing I'm working on is really appealing to me right now. I've sort of saddled myself with a number of little projects which I usually don't take on, but they can end up being distractions. So at some point, I'm going to shut all of that down and focus on something that I'm going to call a 'Grandaddy' record."

The Arthur King Presents installation will be at 98 Orchard Aug. 15-21. Admission is free. RSVP for the opening night reception at: dangerbird.wufoo.com/forms/rsvp-arthur-king-jason-lytle-and-randy-randall.

Jets All-Pro safety Jamal Adams offered to play cornerback for a depleted secondary on Monday. GETTY IMAGES

Jets' Jamal Adams looks OK after injury scare

The All-Pro safety looked as though he hurt his leg/hip during Tuesday's practice.

JOE PANTORNO
joseph.pantorno@metro.us

The New York Jets are facing a crisis within their secondary as the injury bug is sweeping through the locker room.

And it looked like it took a bite out of their All-Pro safety in Jamal Adams, who appeared to pick up an injury during practice on Tuesday.

Jets reporter Ethan B. Greenberg relayed that Adams was "dinged up" while in action and was favoring his leg and hip as he walked off the field. However, he returned to practice moments later and appeared fine.

One of Gang Green's largest issues going into the 2019 season is their depth at cornerback with a less-than-imposing group tasked with shutting down the opposition's aerial attack.

But things have taken a turn for the worse in recent days with Trumaine Johnson and Kyron Brown — two of the team's top corners — going down with injuries.

Johnson's injury appears to be a serious one. Head coach Adam Gase revealed that the veteran's hamstring issue will keep him out on a week-to-week basis.

Brown, who stepped in for Johnson during practice on Monday, also tweaked his hamstring.

That left the Jets with a combination of Darryl Roberts, Brian Poole, Parry Nickerson, Kayvon Brown, Arthur Maulet, Mark Myers and Dee Delaney.

Roberts and Poole account for 37 of the 40 career combined starts among those seven options on the Jets' depth chart.

The looming crisis resulted in Adams offering his services at cornerback on Monday.

"If they need me to go to corner, I'll go to corner," Adams said on Monday. "I'm dead serious."

While appreciative of the offer, Jets defensive coordinator Gregg Williams isn't ready to take Adams up on his offer, yet.

"He could do it. No doubt about it," Williams said on Tuesday. "He's a good enough athlete to do it. ... We haven't crossed that bridge yet."

Adams is becoming one of the top safeties in the NFL, coming off a sophomore season in which he recorded 115 total tackles, 12 passes defended, 3.5 sacks, three forced fumbles and an interception.

He's also developed into a team leader for an up-and-coming Jets team that could challenge for the AFC East within the next few years.

Torres dominance vs. Orioles at historic levels

The young Yankees slugger is having a season for the ages against the last-place Baltimore Orioles.

JOE PANTORNO
joseph.pantorno@metro.us

Gleyber Torres hit 13 home runs in his first 16 games against the Orioles this season. GETTY IMAGES

"Way back, left field ... you've gotta be kidding me!" Baltimore Orioles television announcer Gary Thorne exclaimed as he put his hands on his head. "You gotta put four fingers up [indicating an intentional walk] when Torres comes to the plate because when he comes around third, it's too late."

New York Yankees star second baseman Gleyber Torres had just hit his third home run of the day and his second of the final leg of Monday's doubleheader against the Orioles as he continued his sheer dominance over the worst team in baseball.

After Monday night's theatrics, the 22-year-old had 13 home runs in 16 games against Baltimore this season and five multi-home-run games.

His power surge has headlined the Yankees' dominance over the minnows of the American League as the Orioles limp to their third straight last-place finish in the AL East.

They won just 47 games last year and are just getting to the 40-win mark in 2019 with seven weeks remaining.

While we long for MLB commissioner Rob Manfred to step in and force the Orioles to fix their dumpster fire of a roster, one can't help but appreciate just how impressive Torres' performances against them have been.

Just look at these numbers. If it wasn't for the Orioles, Torres would be having a mediocre season. But he's taking full advantage of playing the worst team in baseball 19 times per year:

GLEYBER TORRES vs. ORIOLES IN 2019
16 GAMES
58 AT-BATS
.414 BATTING AVERAGE
.485 ON-BASE PERCENTAGE
1.138 SLUGGING PERCENTAGE
13 HOME RUNS
20 RBI

GLEYBER TORRES VS. REST OF MLB IN 2019
92 GAMES
345 AT-BATS
.260 BATTING AVERAGE
.325 ON-BASE PERCENTAGE
.351 SLUGGING PERCENTAGE
13 HOME RUNS
49 RBI

Regardless, this kind of performance against a single opponent in a single season is one of the more rare feats in baseball history.

In fact, Torres became just the sixth player in Major League Baseball history to record 13 or more home runs in a season against one opponent:

THIS ACTION FOR DIVORCE IS BASED UPON THE FOLLOWING GROUND OR GROUNDS: The relationship between Plaintiff and Defendant has broken down irretrievably for a period of at least six months, pursuant to DRL Section 170(7). THE RELIEF SOUGHT BY THE PLAINTIFF IN THIS ACTION IS A JUDGMENT DIVORCING THE PARTIES AND DISSOLVING THE MARITAL RELATIONSHIP WHICH HAS HERETOFORE EXISTED. PLAINTIFF ALSO REQUESTS THAT SUCH JUDGMENT GRANT THE FOLLOWING ITEMS OF ADDITIONAL AND ANCILLARY RELIEF: Awarding Plaintiff exclusive use and occupancy of the marital residence; Awarding Plaintiff exclusive use and occupancy of the contents of the marital residence; Awarding Plaintiff equitable distribution of marital property, including a distributive award to Plaintiff if required or appropriate to effect such equitable distribution; Declaring Plaintiff's separate property; Granting each party the right to resume the use of any maiden name or other pre-marriage surname; Awarding Plaintiff such other and further relief as to the court may seem just and proper, together with the costs and disbursements of this action. Notice: under DRL Section 255, effective October 9, 2009, notice is hereby given that once the judgment of divorce is signed, a party hereto may or may not be eligible to be covered under the other party's health insurance plan, depending on terms of plan. NOTICE OF ENTRY OF AUTOMATIC ORDERS (DRL 236) Rev. 1/13 FAILURE TO COMPLY WITH THESE ORDERS MAY BE DEEMED A CONTEMPT OF COURT. Pursuant to the Uniform Rules of the Trial Courts and DRL Section 236, Part B, section 2, the parties are bound by the following AUTOMATIC ORDERS, which have been entered against you and your spouse in your divorce action pursuant to 22 NYRR §202.16(a), and which shall remain in full force and effect during the pendency of the action unless terminated, modified or amended by further order of the court or upon written agreement between the parties: (1) ORDERED: Neither party shall transfer, encumber, assign, remove, withdraw, or in any way dispose of, without the consent of the other party in writing, or by order of the court, any property (including but not limited to real estate, personal property, cash accounts, stocks, mutual funds, bank accounts, cars and boats) individually or jointly held by the parties, except in the usual course of business, for customary and usual household expenses or for reasonable attorney's fees in connection with this action. (2) ORDERED: Neither party shall transfer, encumber, assign, remove, withdraw, or in any way dispose of any tax deferred funds, stocks, or other assets held in any individual retirement accounts, 401K accounts, profit sharing plans, Keogh accounts, or any other pension or retirement account, and the parties shall further refrain from applying for or requesting the payment of retirement benefits or annuity payments of any kind, without the consent of the other party in writing, or upon further order of the court; except that any party who is already in pay status may continue to receive such payments thereunder. (3) ORDERED: Neither party shall incur unreasonable debts hereafter, including but not limited to further borrowing against any credit line secured by the family residence, further encumbrancing any assets, or unreasonably using credit cards or cash advances against credit cards, except in the usual course of business or for customary or usual household expenses, or for reasonable attorney's fees in connection with this action. (4) ORDERED: Neither party shall cause the other party or the children of the marriage to be removed from any existing medical, hospital, and dental insurance coverage, and each party shall maintain the existing medical, hospital, and dental insurance coverage in full force and effect. (5) ORDERED: Neither party shall change the beneficiaries of any existing life insurance policies and each party shall maintain the existing life insurance, automobile insurance, homeowners, and renters insurance policies in full force and effect. IMPORTANT: After service of the Summons with Notice or Summons and Complaint for divorce, if you or your spouse wishes to modify or dissolve the automatic orders, you must ask the court for approval to do so or enter into a written modification agreement with your spouse duly signed and acknowledged before a notary public. Notice of Guideline Maintenance for Uncontested Divorce. If your divorce was commenced on or after January 25, 2016, this Notice is required to be given to you by the Supreme Court of the county where your divorce was filed to comply with the Maintenance Guidelines Law ([S. 5678/A. 7645], Chapter 269, Laws of 2015) because you may not have counsel in this action to advise you. It does not mean that your spouse (the person you are married to) is seeking or offering an award of "Maintenance" in this action. "Maintenance" means the amount to be paid to the other spouse for support after the divorce is final. You are hereby given notice that under the Maintenance Guidelines Law (Chapter 269, Laws of 2015), there is an obligation to award the guideline amount of maintenance on income up to $184,000 to be paid by the party with the higher income (the maintenance payor) to the party with the lower income (the maintenance payee) according to a formula, unless the parties agree otherwise or waive this right. Depending on the incomes of the parties, the obligation might fall on either the Plaintiff or Defendant in the action. There are two formulas to determine the amount of the obligation. If you and your spouse have no children, the higher formula will apply. If there are children of the marriage, the lower formula will apply, but only if the maintenance payor is paying child support to the other spouse who has the children as the custodial parent. Otherwise the higher formula will apply. Lower Formula-1- Multiply Maintenance Payor's Income by 20%, 2- Multiply Maintenance Payee's Income by 25% - Subtract Line 2 from Line 1: = Result 1. Subtract Maintenance Payee's Income from 40% of Combined Income* = Result 2. Enter the lower of Result 2 or Result 1, but if less than or equal to zero, enter zero. THIS IS THE CALCULATED GUIDELINE AMOUNT OF MAINTENANCE WITH THE LOWER FORMULA. Higher Formula- 1 - Multiply Maintenance Payor's Income by 30%, 2- Multiply Maintenance Payee's Income by 20% - Subtract Line 2 from Line 1 = Result 1. Subtract Maintenance Payee's Income from 40% of Combined Income* = Result 2. Enter the lower of Result 2 or Result 1, but if less than or equal to zero, enter zero. THIS IS THE CALCULATED GUIDELINE AMOUNT OF MAINTENANCE WITH THE HIGHER FORMULA- *Combined Income equals Maintenance Payor's Income up to $184,000 plus Maintenance Payee's Income. Note: The Court will determine how long maintenance will be paid in accordance with the statute. IN THE EVENT THAT YOU FAIL TO APPEAR OR ANSWER, JUDGMENT WILL BE TAKEN AGAINST YOU, by default, for the relief demanded in this Summons with Notice. The relief sought is a judgment of absolute divorce in favor of the Plaintiff dissolving the marriage between the parties in this action. Marital property to be distributed pursuant to separation agreement/stipulation; I am not seeking maintenance as the payee spouse, as described in the Notice of Guideline Maintenance (the Notice"), other than what was already agreed to in a written agreement/stipulation; AND any other relief the court deems fit and proper.
